kitchen & bar practices

We are always looking at how we can minimise food wastage. The kitchen use many byproducts of ingredients to create exciting elements to elevate dishes such as turning pork skin into a crispy pork quaver. The chefs use their butchery skills to make panko coated chicken goujons on the children's menu from mini fillets cut from chicken breasts.

The bar dehydrate fruit, extending its life to use as garnishes in most of the drinks you'll enjoy from our bar and on our Madagascan vanilla panna cotta, blood orange & cardamom, brown sugar shortbread.

the hilltop garden

Our gardens provide us with fresh herbs and produce which is served to you within your wedding breakfast and drinks. We grow lots of herbs such as wild garlic, chillies, chives, parsley, mint, basil, thyme, rosemary, sage, fennel and so much more to use for flavouring and garnishes.

The chefs utilise the herbs such as chives, parsley and basil to make Hilltop herb oil and colourful aiolis. Hilltop herb oil is used throughout the menus and the aioli for all of our arancini canapés. Parsley stems and chillies are pickled to make use as a garnish for many canapés and starters.

In cocktails you'll taste the mint in our Mojito, Southside and Hugo Spritz and the basil in our signature Gin Basil Smash. Many of our flowers in the gardens are edible to decorate your plate!

Our orchard gives us plenty of apples and when in season we have rhubarb from the herb garden. The rhubarb is preserved and used in our Hilltop rhubarb and apple crumble. Apples from our orchard are added to this dessert and picked up by High Peak Cider to be made into juice. We use this juice to cook our pork dish and in the jus. It is also the perfect addition to our signature cocktail, Truly British.
